

Be a teacher's Pet!

Help Support The Washington Times NIE Newspaper in Education Program

What is NIE?

The Newspaper in Education program promotes literacy and civic education in the community by providing newspapers and other teaching materials to elementary, middle and high schools throughout the Washington metro area.

Why is it important?

Newspapers improve reading, comprehension and math skills. A newspaper is like a living textbook, containing history as it happens. NIE research shows 10% average gains on standardized test scores, with up to 30% for minority students in NIE schools.

How can you help? By participating in several ways:

Adopt a Class or School

You can provide newspapers and curriculum for one classroom for as low as $20 per year or an entire school for as little as $250 per year.

Vacation Donations

Instead of stopping delivery of the paper while on vacation, subscribers of The Washington Times can donate their papers to local classrooms through the Newspaper in Education program.

Contributions

The Newspaper in Education program is funded by the generous donations of local companies and people like YOU!

For more information, please visit our Web site at:
www.WashingtonTimes.com/education or contact Doug Alexander at 202-636-4847.
dalexander@washingtontimes.com

The Washington Times

Brighter. Bolder.

